WILLIAM AND JOHN CLARK

OF CLUNY, BOTHWELL

FAMILY PAPERS 1812 - 1872

William Clark (1769-1851) arrived in Tasmania in 1824 and settled near Bothwell at Cluny, and later acquired other property on the River Jordan at the Hunting Ground, later called Mauriceton.

He had formerly served in the British army, was taken prisoner by the French in 1812. In 1821-1823 he served in South Africa but when his regiment was ordered to India he sold his captaincy to retire to Van Diemen's Land, as his health would not stand an Indian campaign.

William Clark and his wife Ann (nee Elphinstone) had five sons and two daughters: Thomas Noble (1793-1853), Jane (1795-1873), Ann (1797-1868), William (1799-1825), George (1801-1827), Charles (1803-1833), John (1807-1852). Four of the sons followed their father into the army. William jr. and his wife Isabella (daughter of Thomas Berdmore) both died of yellow fever in Jamaica in 1825 leaving an infant son, William Sydney, who also died before he could be brought back to his Berdmore grandparents. George died in India at the age of 26 in 1827 and Charles was drowned in October 1833 in the wreck of the "Lady Munro" on this way from India to join his parents in Tasmania.

John Clark (1807-1853), the youngest son, came with his father to Tasmania and was Keeper of the Bonded Store in Launceston, Coast Waiter and Searcher at George Town and Police Magistrate at Hobart, Launceston, George Town and later Bothwell. He returned to take over the management of Cluny in 1838. He married Jane Eddie but had no children.

Jane the elder daughter came to Tasmania with her father from South Africa on the "Adrian". She did not marry but was governess to the children of Lieutenant-Governor Arthur and later lived with her father. Mrs Ann Clark and the second daughter, Ann, came from England in the "Phoenix" to join the family. Ann married in 1826 William Pritchard Weston (1804-1888) of Hythe, Longford, who had arrived in Tasmania in 1824. W.P. Weston was a member of the Royal Society of Tasmania. He opposed transportation and became a member of Parliament, serving as Premier for brief periods in 1857 and 1861. He spent his later years in Victoria where he died in 1888. William and Ann Weston had two sons, Edward Dubrelle (1831-1877), who married Kate Macarthy Clerke, and Maurice (1834-1895), who married Marie Elizabeth Wilmore in 1864, and five daughters: Madeleine Dubrelle who married John Guthrie in 1850; Ann (1832- ), who married Joseph Archer in 1852; Aimee (d. 1861) who married James Carstairs; Fanny who married Edward Morrah of the Bank of Australia and New Zealand in 1858; and Emma Blanche who was born in London in 1840. Ann (Clark) Weston added Dubrelle to her eldest children's names as the Clark family claimed to be descended from a French Huguenot family called Dubrelle who settled in Ireland in the 17th century. Edward Weston inherited Cluny but left it in common to all his children, so the property was leased and eventually sold. Edward's eldest son was William Dubrelle (d. 1946, a solicitor of Law, Weston and Archer of Launceston) and his eldest son Edwin Dubrelle Weston donated to the Queen Victoria Museum, Launceston, some papers of the Weston family and a portrait of W.P. Weston.

The William and John Clark Papers are an interesting record of a settler family. They include papers concerning the management of the Cluny property, a few papers relating to Bothwell and John Clark's correspondence concerning his work as a magistrate. There are also letters to John Clark from William Barnes (1791?-1848). brewer of Launceston, 1829-1839; Matthew Curling Friend of Newnham, Port Officer at George Town, 1833-1841, and from Charles Arthur (1808-1884), nephew of and Aide-de-Camp to Lt.-Governor George Arthur, 1827-1829. There are also letters from British army officers' wives and daughters addressed to Jane Clark.

ROADS

Roads 1835 - 1850

Correspondence, petition by William Clark and neighbours and Clark's statement of information before a J.P. concerning the stoppage of public cross roads in the Green ponds area serving landowners along the Jordan and in the interior. The chief correspondents were: William Clark, the Colonial Secretary, G.B. Forster asst. police magistrate at Pontville, A.F. Kemp, the Attorney-General and the Surveyor-General. Also William Clark's comments on the proposed Road Bill (1846). ✓

The road from Bothwell through the Hunting Ground to the main road at Green Ponds (registered 24 Dec. 1840) had been blocked by Thomas Francis Gorringe on his property at Green Ponds in 1842. In 1843 the road from Hamilton and Elderslie

(marked and gazetted on 10 June 1836), which joined the main Launceston road at Cross Marsh and also went on to Picton and Apsley, had been stopped by A.F. Kemp of Cross Marsh where it crossed his property. These roads were used by all the local farmers taking stock and produce to the Green Ponds or Oatlands markets and by several tradesmen and small landholders living in the area and also by Mr Otter the Green ponds chaplain and by a dissenting minister who conducted Divine Service for up to 50 people in William Clark's barn on alternate Sundays. Considerable inconvenience and even hardship had been caused and subsequently summonses were taken out against T.F. Gorringe and A.F. Kemp. ✓

Letter from Philip Palmer, Bothwell chaplain: chaplaincy becoming vacant, Clark's interest in Mr Bryan for the post - Bryan superseded at Impression Bay by Rev. Gibbs (26 May 1849 A81) (V10:24, ) ✓
(3 docs.)

TRANSPORTATION

83-86

Transportation 1846 - 1847

Letter from J.E. Bicheno, Colonial Secretary, concerning the new bill proposed by the Lt.-Governor (15 sept. 1846), Copies of Clark's comments in reply: the majority of neighbours were in favour of some transportation as convict labour was better than none - would prefer free labour but many good workers leaving the Colony. Some landowners preferred to forego the supposed advantage of convict labour rather than "endure the moral pollution engendered by the presence of so many abandoned criminals". Women convicts were more deeply dyed in vice and moral pollution than men - they could only be guided for good through their affections so "marry them, and the sooner the better" (1 Oct. 1846, 14 Apr. 1847) ✓
(4 docs.) (V14:18, 20)

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

87-93

Magistracy 1838 - 1850

B JOHN CLARK

John Clark (1807 - 1853) arrived in Van Diemen's land with his father from South Africa in 1824. His father acquired a grant of land for him on the Jordan river at the Hunting Ground. From March 1829 - March 1830 he was Keeper of the Bonded Store at Launceston. He was appointed to the Commission of Peace in February 1830 and in April he was already acting as magistrate in George Town as the stipendiary Assistant Police Magistrate there had been removed. On 1 May John Clark received the appointment of Landing and Coast Waiter and Searcher at George Town, a paid appointment worth £300 a year. In addition to the duties of clearance of vessels and customs, he was directed to be responsible for keeping a record of prisoners at the settlement and to pay special attention to the female House of Correction, as the Lieutenant-Governor had doubts about the Superintendent, and the education of the children of the settlement. Such matters were normally the responsibility of the resident Police Magistrate and on 7 May 1830 John Clark was directed to take up his station in George Town, there being no resident magistrate since Captain D'Arcy had been removed. From May - December 1835 he was Assistant Police Magistrate in Hobart and in January 1836 he was appointed Police Magistrate in Launceston as William Lyttleton was returning to England. He was also appointed a coroner on 2 May 1836.

In 1838 William Clark, John's father, conveyed his property, Cluny, to his son in return for annuities for himself and his wife and daughters and at the end of the year John Clark returned to Bothwell to run the property. He continued to act as a justice of the peace and coroner in Bothwell and got involved in a dispute between some Bothwell inhabitants and the Assistant Police Magistrate Major Charles Schaw of Schawfield. Later he was also in dispute with another A.P.M. Samuel Barrow and with a fellow Bothwell justice of the peace Rev. Wigmore.

In February 1839 John Clark married Jane Oswald Sinclair Eddie (1820- ), niece of John A. Eddie of Launceston. After his death in 1853 his widow returned to Scotland. A child had been born but did not live.

Most of John Clark's financial affairs were handled by the Bank of Australasia (Charles S. Henty) in Launceston, including some of the wool trade and J.S. Butler of Hobart also acted as agent for the overseas wool trade.

Other regular correspondents and friends included Charles Arthur, William Barnes and Matthew Curling Friend.

Charles Arthur (1808-1844), nephew and ADC of Governor George Arthur, had become acquainted with John Clark before the latter went to Launceston as Store Keeper and the two carried on a fairly lively correspondence, both being in their early twenties. Charles Arthur afterwards settled at Longford and married Mary Allen daughter of Thomas Reibey of Entally.

William Barnes (1791?-1848), a friend of Clark, was a brewer who settled in Launceston about 1824 and established the Port Dalrymple Brewery and grew hops at South Esk. His nephews Thomas Manifold and Thomas Wilson joined him in 1827 and other Manifolds later. In 1835 Barnes offered to sell the brewery to Tom and John Manifold. Wilson committed suicide in 1835. Barnes was appointed a justice of the peace in 1828. He was a director of the Cornwall Bank and the Bank of Australasia and had properties Trevallyn and Plaisance (Kelso). He married Anne Jane Sharland a teacher, in 1830 and they had a son, William 1832-1898).

Matthew Curling Friend (1792-1871), a lieutenant in the Royal Navy, settled in Tasmania at Newnham in 1832. He was appointed Port Officer at Launceston in 1832 and George Town in 1834 during the years when Clark was Police Magistrate there and they seem to have been on very friendly terms and Friend and his wife, Mary Ann (died 1838), corresponded with Clark. Friend retired to England in 1852.

COAST WAITER AND MAGISTRATE GEORGE TOWN

John Clark was appointed to the Commission of the Peace in February 1830 and was already acting as magistrate in George Town in April. The Assistant Police Magistrate at George Town, was transferred and not replaced by another stipendiary magistrate. On 1 May 1830 John Clark was appointed Landing and Coast Waiter and Searcher at George Town, a paid appointment worth £300 a year. In addition to the duties of clearance of vessels and customs, he was directed to be responsible for keeping a record of prisoners at the settlement and to pay special attention to the female House of Correction and the education of the children of the settlement. Such matters were normally the responsibility of the resident Police Magistrate and on 7 May 1830 J.C. was directed to take up his station in George Town, there being no resident magistrate since Capt. d'Arcy had been removed.

COAST WAITER GEORGE TOWN

Satirical verse 1842

Satirical verse referring to "a pugilistic parson bold who can mill", "a quack . . . law he tried and bullied by the hour", and a "jew boy . . . a fat barrow pig", probably comments on some of the magistracy disputes. It is not signed but ends "sweet Auburn eighteen forty two" and is probably a copy in J.C.'s hand.

F JANE CLARK

Jane Clark (1795-1873) was the elder daughter of William Clark and brother of John Clark. She had joined her father at Cape Town, South Africa, where he was serving with the army and came with him and her young brother John to Tasmania in the "Adrian", the same ship on which the new Lieut-Governor Colonel Arthur and his family travelled. The Arthur family were army friends of the Clark family and Jane became governess to the Arthur children. She did not marry and lived most of her life at Mauriceton, Green Ponds.

ANN (NEE CLARK) AND WILLIAM PRITCHARD WESTON

G

- 1 William Clark to William Pritchard Weston 2 Feb. 1834
 Thanks for sympathy on loss of son Charles; complaints about unfavourable climate and losses from frost, occupying son John's land - poor soil so run would not support 500 sheep, poor Howell, only millers made anything out of farming in this district, Mrs C. missing Charles - only son who cared for her, John not visited, not on good terms with neighbours - Scotch, Col. Arthur stipulated 500 of 1000 acres granted to son John were for daughter Jane but prohibited from granting land to ladies.
 (1 doc. V4)
- 2 Anne Gosling to Ann Clark (later Weston) 28 Feb. 1823
 Price of bobbin net - figured 1 guinea, bordered 3 guineas, army news, Maclays, glad Ann likes Isle Of Wight.
 (1 doc., old green No. Ua.17)
- 3 Maria Adams to Ann Clark (later Mrs Weston) 28 May 1824
 "Providence Lodge" to Ann on Isle Of Wight: family, army, asks after William and his wife.
 (1 doc. old green No. Ua.25)
- 4 Sidney Berdmore to Ann Weston (nee Clark) 17 July 184- [?1840]
 Westgate House [Winchester]: news of family - the ancients herself and Berdmore well although she had changed, of boys Scroope (always very fond of Ann) a Lieutenant in 20th - in recruiting district at a guinea a day for 3 years, Charles a student of Christ Church Oxford, Hugh in Madras Artillery, Vesey a Lieutenant in the 63rd, De Lisle in the Foreign Port Office, Lovell in London & Westminster Bank, Maria her eldest girl remembers Ann but Ann would not remember the youngest Augusta; cannot bring herself to talk of "those dear ones early removed" [? daughter Isabella and her husband William Clark], Winchester improved - rail road to Southampton in 20 minutes, where does Anne think of placing her boys?. From Westgate House - House instead of Cottage since the Reform Bill.
